We're a small team building tools that directly impact our patients and families, as well as our clinic staff. We work quickly but calmly. We're looking for an engineer with some great backend & DevOps chops. You'll be responsible for taking projects from concept to completion. You'll work with wonderful engineers, designers, and medical providers. You will have autonomy and creativity and see the impact of the code you write.

Everyone on our team works across the stack. We use Typescript, Node.js, React Native, Hasura, Postgres, and GraphQL to build our mobile apps, web site, and backend.

This is a full-time, remote position (the US only) at a fast growing startup.

About you

- You are excited to build software that makes a tangible difference in people's lives.
- You feel the goal is not to write software but to help people and software is a tool to do it.
- You are interested in the product as a whole and want to collaborate with design and other stakeholders to build the best thing possible.
- You're not quick to say "no" but you also understand every "yes" has its tradeoffs.
- You have strong opinions backed by experience and are able to articulately discuss the pros/cons of various approaches. But you are also open to new ideas and ways of doing things.
- You are kind, caring and want to work with people who are making a difference.
- You are self-motivated and driven. You want to be given problems to solve rather than tickets to pick up.
- You want to bring your ideas to the table, and we want to hear them.
